

RAPPAPORT, AARON J.

Articles

What the Supreme Court Should Do: Save Sentencing Reform, Gut the Guidelines, 17 FED. SENT. R. 46 (2004).

The Logic of Legal Theory: Reflections on the Purpose and Methodology of Jurisprudence, 73 MISS. L.J. 559 (2004).

Accomplishing the Purposes of Sentencing – The Role of the Courts and the Commission, 15 FED. SENT. R. 179 (2003) (panel).

Rationalizing the Commission: The Philosophical Premises of the U.S. Sentencing Guidelines, 52 EMORY L.J. 557 (2003), summarized at 15 FED. SENT. R. 213 (2003).

Unprincipled Punishment: The U.S. Sentencing Commission's Troubling Silence About the Purposes of Punishment, 6 BUFF. CRIM. L. REV. 1043 (2003).

Beyond Personhood and Autonomy: Moral Theory and the Premises of Privacy, 2001 UTAH L. REV. 441 (2001).

Speaking of Purposes, 12 FED. SENT. R. 95 (1999).

The State of Severity, 12 FED. SENT. R. 3 (1999).

Sentencing in England: The Rise of Populist Punishment, 10 FED. SENT. R. 247 (1998).

Criminal History and the Purposes of Sentencing, 9 FED. SENT. R. 184 (1997).

The Intertwined Problems of Immigration and Sentencing, 8 FED. SENT. R. 252 (1996) (with Nora Demleitner & Daniel J. Freed).

Reviewing Departures: The First Circuit's New Rivera Rule, 6 FED. SENT. R. 43 (1993).

Guideline Developments in the First Circuit: The Two Faces of Appellate Review, 5 FED. SENT. R. 267 (1993).